

Mindestlohn

Interdisziplinäre Betrachtungen Edited by Christian Arnold and Philipp S. Fischinger

The creation of a general statutory minimum wage in 2015 was one of the most controversial reforms in German employment and labour law over the past few decades. This book strives to pinpoint detailed questions of its day-to-day application, while also taking the bigger picture of the constitutional, economical and historical aspects of such a minimum wage clearly into view.

Philipp S. Fischinger ist Professor für Bürgerliches Recht, Arbeitsrecht, Handels- und Wirtschaftsrecht sowie Sportrecht an der Universität Mannheim.

Christian Arnold ist Rechtsanwalt und Partner bei Gleiss Lutz in Stuttgart.
