

Eric C. Moore

Claiming Places

Reading Acts through the Lens of Ancient Colonization

[Claiming Places]

Published in English.

How is Acts of the Apostles - its form and features - to be understood in light of the work's ancient Mediterranean cultural context? In the present study, Eric C. Moore offers a fresh response to this much-debated question, arguing for the utility of ancient colonization as an analytic lens for reading Acts, a story about the origins and replication of early Christianity. He explores how in narrating his account, Luke draws on a common stock of »foundation« motifs employed by ancient sources, textual and material alike, to glorify community beginnings.

Eric C. Moore Born 1976; MDiv from Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary (Biblical Studies); ThM from Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary (Biblical Studies); PhD in New Testament from Emory University; currently Adjunct Professor of New Testament at Candler School of Theology, Emory University, and Interdenominational Theological Center.

2020. XIII, 270 pages. WUNT II 525

ISBN 978-3-16-156985-2
sewn paper €94.00

ISBN 978-3-16-156986-9
DOI 10.1628/978-3-16-156986-9
eBook PDF €94.00

---

Order now:

<https://www.mohrsiebeck.com/en/book/claiming-places-9783161569852/>

Phone: +49 (0)7071-923-17

Fax: +49 (0)7071-51104