Antike und Christentum
Gesammelte Aufsätze IV

[Antiquity and Christianity. Collected Essays IV. By Hans Dieter Betz.]

Published in German.
The volume contains thirteen essays written between 1990 and 1997, ten in English and three in German. As the title indicates, the essays represent new scholarly contributions to the ongoing discussion about early Christianity in the context of Graeco-Roman antiquity. Individual studies deal with the historical Jesus, the origins of Christianity, Graeco-Roman religions (magic, hero cult, gnosticism, Hermetica, Orphic gold tablets), and the importance of Paul for the origins of Christianity. The concluding essay surveys the history of the theme 'antiquity and Christianity' from the New Testament to the 20th century. The studies represent the cutting edge of contemporary international research.
