Antwort auf Grundfragen christlichen Glaubens

Dogmatik als integrative Disziplin

[Answering Fundamental Questions of Christian Faith. Dogmatics as an Integrative Discipline. 2nd, revised edition.]

Published in German.

Protestant theology is faced with the task of not losing touch with Christian piety as it is lived. In order to keep the connection, it has to be able to answer unequivocally the seemingly simple sounding religious questions stemming from everyday consciousness which are suffused with presuppositions and implications. Dietrich Korsch wishes to strengthen the competence of those challenged with answering such queries. His volume is therefore aimed at theology students before graduation who seek ways to integrate subdisciplines, at clergymen and women confronted with new experiences within their communities, as well as both the church and educational theologians whose religious practice is surrounded by these questions. It is also suitable for the preparation of congregational and academic seminars.

Dietrich Korsch Geboren 1949; Studium der Theologie; 1972 Promotion; 1987 Habilitation; seit 1998 Professor für Systematische Theologie und Geschichte der Theologie an der Philipps-Universität Marburg; 2014 emeritiert.
