

Jan Doehorn

Der Adammythos bei Paulus und im hellenistischen Judentum Jerusalems

Eine theologische und religionsgeschichtliche Studie zu Römer 7,7–25

[The Myth of Adam in Paul and in the Hellenistic Judaism of Jerusalem. A Theological and Religious-Historical Study of Rom 7:7–25.]

Published in German.

Adam, sin, death and the law are the core elements of Paul's view of the pre-Christian history of humankind. Paul developed this view using the Apocalypse of Moses, with which he had become familiar in Jerusalem before he became a Christian, as his background. In this study, Jan Doehorn reveals how the myth of Adam emerged among the Greek-speaking Jews in Jerusalem and identifies several parabiblical texts as products of this milieu, which probably had a greater impact on Pauline theology and early Christianity than other strands of ancient Judaism.

Jan Doehorn Geboren 1968; 2007–14 Lektor/Associate Professor für Neues Testament in Aarhus; seit 2014 Senior Lecturer/Associate Professor für Neues Testament in Durham (Vereinigtes Königreich).

2021. XVI, 722 pages. WUNT I 469

ISBN 978-3-16-160097-5

DOI 10.1628/978-3-16-160097-5

eBook PDF 184,00 €

ISBN 978-3-16-160096-8

cloth 184,00 €

Order now:

https://www.mohrsiebeck.com/en/book/der-adammythos-bei-paulus-und-im-hellenistischen-judentum-jerusalems-9783161600975?no_cache=1

order@mohrsiebeck.com

Phone: +49 (0)7071-923-17

Fax: +49 (0)7071-51104