Der Höhepunkt des Hebräerbriefs

Hebräer 12,18–29 und seine Bedeutung für die Struktur und die Theologie des Hebräerbriefs

[The High Point of the Letter to the Hebrews. Hebrews 12, 18–29 and Its Significance for the Structure and Theology of the Book.]

Published in German.

The special structural and theological significance of Hebrews 12, 18–19 has often been postulated in research on the Letter to the Hebrews. In this volume though, Lukas Stolz comprehensively questions for the first time whether or to what extent this segment can be both structurally and theologically considered the culmination of Hebrews. After discussing important introductory questions, the author's exegesis investigates numerous aspects of interpreting this theologically extremely dense excerpt in detail and from a variety of tangents. In conclusion the literary, rhetorical, and content references to the climatic character of Hebr. 12, 18–29 are exhaustively revealed. By comparing it with what ancient teachers of rhetoric would demand of a good peroration, the author argues that this section of Hebrews is indeed just that.
