Investigative journalism deals with the active exposure of irregularities. Freedom of the press and constitutionally protected broadcasting freedom give it a great deal of significance in constitutional law. Against this backdrop, Julia Eichhoff explains which laws apply to investigative journalism and how its protection in the application and interpretation of the law can be strengthened. She analyzes the subjects that are covered according to typical conflict situations in order to weigh the various interests abstractly.

Julia Eichhoff

Geboren 1974; Studium der Rechtswissenschaft in München (LMU); 2009 Promotion; Juristische Mitarbeiterin an der Universität der Bundeswehr München.

Order now:
order@mohrsiebeck.com
Phone: +49 (0)7071-923-17
Fax: +49 (0)7071-51104