Konstitutionalisierung und Normativität der europäischen Grundrechte

[The Constitutionalization and Normativity of European Basic Rights.]

Published in German.

Since the Lisbon Treaty took effect, European basic rights have become part of the total body of European Union law. Although it may seem that due to this step the constitutionalization of European basic rights has been completed, these rights have paradoxically lost some of their normativity. This is the theory developed by Jörg Philipp Terhechte using the reforms in the Treaty of Lisbon and the case law of the Federal Constitutional Court.

Jörg Philipp Terhechte ist Professor für Öffentliches Recht, Europäisches und Internationales Recht an der Leuphana Universität Lüneburg und Professor for European and International Economic Law an der University of Glasgow; Direktor des Leuphana Center for Gaming Law & Culture; seit 2016 Vizepräsident der Leuphana Universität Lüneburg und seit 2018 Academic Director des European Centre for Advanced Studies GmbH.
