Vom Grundsatz der komplementärgleichen Kommanditistenhaftung

Ein Beitrag zur Enträtselung des § 176 HGB

[The Principle of Limited Liability Partnerships Equalling General Partner's Liability. A Contribution to Deciphering Section 176 of the Commercial Code.]

Published in German.

The relationship between the rule and the exception in the case of liability and limitation on liability in the law pertaining to the limited partnership is one of the most difficult issues in corporate law. Christof Lehen shows that up to now the way this has been mainly understood was diametrically opposed to the intention of the law. He develops an explanatory model to describe the principles of liability intrinsic to the limited partnership and in comparison to the partnership under the Civil Code, a model which is in keeping with the principles.

Christof Lehen Geboren 1982; Studium der Rechtswissenschaften an der Universität Trier; Mitarbeiter an der Universität Trier am Lehrstuhl für Bürgerliches Recht, Handels- und Gesellschaftsrecht (Wirtschaftsrecht), Privatversicherungsrecht; Rechtsreferendar am OLG Koblenz; geschäftsführender Gesellschafter einer Rechtsanwälte Partnerschaftsgesellschaft; 2013 Promotion.
