

Entscheidungen des Bundesverfassungsgerichts

Edited by Justices of the German Federal Constitutional Court

The BVerfGE – Rulings of the Federal Constitutional Court.

Sixty seven years and more than a hundred volumes into its history, the BVerfGE is one of the most influential and widely cited publications in German jurisprudence. Launched in 1952, it contains all the court's senate decisions in their full length, including the five most cited German court rulings ever. The collection has grown annually since the founding of the Federal Constitutional Court in 1951, and new volumes are now added several times a year. The abbreviated citation form BVerfGE is a household name among German jurists, many of whom regard it as the authoritative collection.

The Entscheidungen des Bundesverfassungsgerichts is part of the Verfassungsrecht PREMIUM collection, which is available at beck-online.de.

The collection of decisions of the Bundesverfassungsgericht is one of the most influential and most cited periodicals in German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court (BVerfG) in unabridged form. Starting with the founding of the court in 1951, the collection is now supplemented several times each year with new volumes. In the abbreviated citation »BVerfGE«, it is familiar to every German lawyer and is even considered by many to be the official collection. Among the highlights of the collection are the much-cited decisions of Elfes (BVerfGE 6, 32) and Lüth (BVerfGE 7, 198), the decisions on abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1; 88, 203), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the Co-Determination Act (BVerfGE 50, 290), on the European Treaties of Maastricht and Lisbon (BVerfGE 89, 155; 123, 267), on online searches (BVerfGE 120, 274), on Hartz IV (BVerfGE 125, 175), and on the European Banking Union (BVerfGE 151, 202).

The collection of cases decided by the German Federal Constitutional Court (FCC) is among the most influential and most-cited periodicals of German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions by the Federal Constitutional Court in unabridged edition. Initiated upon the Court's establishment in 1951, the collection is now updated several times a year. Known to every German lawyer under its abbreviation »BVerfGE«, the collection is often considered the authoritative »official court report«. Its highlights include the five most-cited German court decisions – on the 1987 census (BVerfGE 65, 1), on Hamburg senator Lüth's call for a film boycott 1958 (BVerfGE 7, 198), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar 1972 (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the legality of abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1) and on the Worker Codetermination Act 1976 (BVerfGE 50, 290).

The collection of decisions of the Bundesverfassungsgericht is one of the most influential and most cited periodicals in German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court (BVerfG) in unabridged form. Starting with the founding of the court in 1951, the collection is now supplemented several times each year with new volumes. In the abbreviated citation »BVerfGE«, it is familiar to every German lawyer and is even considered by many to be the official collection. Among the highlights of the collection are the much-cited decisions of Elfes (BVerfGE 6, 32) and Lüth (BVerfGE 7, 198), the decisions on abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1; 88, 203), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the Co-Determination Act (BVerfGE 50, 290), on the European Treaties of Maastricht and Lisbon (BVerfGE 89, 155; 123, 267), on online searches (BVerfGE 120, 274), on Hartz IV (BVerfGE 125, 175), and on the European Banking Union (BVerfGE 151, 202).

The collection of decisions of the Bundesverfassungsgericht is one of the most influential and most cited periodicals in German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court (BVerfG) in unabridged form. Starting with the founding of the court in 1951, the collection is now supplemented several times each year with new volumes. In the abbreviated citation »BVerfGE«, it is familiar to every German lawyer and is even considered by many to be the official collection. Among the highlights of the collection are the much-cited decisions of Elfes (BVerfGE 6, 32) and Lüth (BVerfGE 7, 198), the decisions on abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1; 88, 203), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the Co-Determination Act (BVerfGE 50, 290), on the European Treaties of Maastricht and Lisbon (BVerfGE 89, 155; 123, 267), on online searches (BVerfGE 120, 274), on Hartz IV (BVerfGE 125, 175), and on the European Banking Union (BVerfGE 151, 202).

The collection of cases decided by the German Federal Constitutional Court (FCC) is among the most influential and most-cited periodicals of German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions by the Federal Constitutional Court in unabridged edition. Initiated upon the Court's establishment in 1951, the collection is now updated several times a year. Known to every German lawyer under its abbreviation »BVerfGE«, the collection is often considered the authoritative »official court report«. Its highlights include the five most-cited German court decisions – on the 1987 census (BVerfGE 65, 1), on Hamburg senator Lüth's call for a film boycott 1958 (BVerfGE 7, 198), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar 1972 (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the legality of abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1) and on the Worker Codetermination Act 1976 (BVerfGE 50, 290).

The collection of cases decided by the German Federal Constitutional Court (FCC) is among the most influential and most-cited periodicals of German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions by the Federal Constitutional Court in unabridged edition. Initiated upon the Court's establishment in 1951, the collection is now updated several times a year. Known to every German lawyer under its abbreviation »BVerfGE«, the collection is often considered the authoritative »official court report«. Its highlights include the five most-cited German court decisions – on the 1987 census (BVerfGE 65, 1), on Hamburg senator Lüth's call for a film boycott 1958 (BVerfGE 7, 198), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar 1972 (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the legality of abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1) and on the Worker Codetermination Act 1976 (BVerfGE 50, 290).

The collection of decisions of the Bundesverfassungsgericht is one of the most influential and most cited periodicals in German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court (BVerfG) in unabridged form. Starting with the founding of the court in 1951, the collection is now supplemented several times each year with new volumes. In the abbreviated citation »BVerfGE«, it is familiar to every German lawyer and is even considered by many to be the official collection. Among the highlights of the collection are the much-cited decisions of Elfes (BVerfGE 6, 32) and Lüth (BVerfGE 7, 198), the decisions on abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1; 88, 203), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the Co-Determination Act (BVerfGE 50, 290), on the European Treaties of Maastricht and Lisbon (BVerfGE 89, 155; 123, 267), on online searches (BVerfGE 120, 274), on Hartz IV (BVerfGE 125, 175), and on the European Banking Union (BVerfGE 151, 202).

The collection of decisions of the Bundesverfassungsgericht is one of the most influential and most cited periodicals in German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court (BVerfG) in unabridged form. Starting with the founding of the court in 1951, the collection is now supplemented several times each year with new volumes. In the abbreviated citation »BVerfGE«, it is familiar to every German lawyer and is even considered by many to be the official collection. Among the highlights of the collection are the much-cited decisions of Elfes (BVerfGE 6, 32) and Lüth (BVerfGE 7, 198), the decisions on abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1; 88, 203), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the Co-Determination Act (BVerfGE 50, 290), on the European Treaties of Maastricht and Lisbon (BVerfGE 89, 155; 123, 267), on online searches (BVerfGE 120, 274), on Hartz IV (BVerfGE 125, 175), and on the European Banking Union (BVerfGE 151, 202).

The collection of cases decided by the German Federal Constitutional Court (FCC) is among the most influential and most-cited periodicals of German jurisprudence. It contains all senate decisions by the Federal Constitutional Court in unabridged edition. Initiated upon the Court's establishment in 1951, the collection is now updated several times a year. Known to every German lawyer under its abbreviation »BVerfGE«, the collection is often considered the authoritative »official court report«. Its highlights include the five most-cited German court decisions – on the 1987 census (BVerfGE 65, 1), on Hamburg senator Lüth's call for a film boycott 1958 (BVerfGE 7, 198), on the fast breeder reactor in Kalkar 1972 (BVerfGE 49, 89), on the legality of abortion (BVerfGE 39, 1) and on the Worker Codetermination Act 1976 (BVerfGE 50, 290).
