Public law is gaining momentum. It is primarily European integration which is presenting traditional structures and patterns of thought in theory and dogmatics with new challenges. The Treaty of Lisbon is also leading to new relationships between constitutional and administrative law. It is the goal of the Studien zum europäischen und deutschen Öffentlichen Recht (EuDÖR) series to capture this process in jurisprudence with current research studies.

ISSN: 2192-2470 - Suggested citation: EuDÖR

Last updated: 20/11/2018. Prices are subject to change.

Order now:
order@mohrsiebeck.com
Phone: +49 (0)7071-923-0
Fax: +49 (0)7071-51104
Mönning, Jarah Elena Tabea

Internationales Staatensanierungsverwaltungsrecht

Programmierung der Sanierungsverwaltung im Verbund

The author analyses and evaluates the structures for providing conditional finance assistance to solve European national debt crises. She takes an administrative law approach and assigns the conditionality legal framework as well as the (network/ composite) structures of the European Stability Mechanism and the International Monetary Fund to international administrative law. In this way, problems previously perceived as mainly political are given a legal perimeter able to compensate existing democratic legitimation deficits.

Schoenfleisch, Christopher

Integration durch Koordinierung?

Rechtsfragen der Politikkoordinierung am Beispiel der nationalen Wirtschaftspolitiken

The European crisis that from 2010 on followed in the wake of the global financial crisis ruthlessly revealed the Economic Union's functional deficits. An analysis of the reform of economic governance illustrates the repercussions for member states' budgetary and economic policies and the European model of dual legitimation.

Almhofer, Martina

Die Haftung der Europäischen Zentralbank für rechtswidrige Bankenaufsicht

With regard to the extensive conferral of prudential supervisory tasks and powers on the European Central Bank (ECB), Martina Almhofer analyses under which conditions the ECB might be held liable for losses caused by supervisory misconduct pursuant to Article 340(3) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union.

Orator, Andreas

Möglichkeiten und Grenzen der Einrichtung von Unionsagenturen
EU agencies have become an indispensable mode of European governance. The author substantiates possibilities for and limits to establishing agencies under the current Treaty framework: What powers may be delegated to EU agencies? How are democratic accountability and effective judicial review to be organized? What role may alternative modes of legitimation play?

Kiekebusch, Dirk

Der Grundsatz der begrenzten Einzelermächtigung

With continued European integration, member states are increasingly voicing misgivings about the EU’s mushrooming competences and an associated loss of sovereignty. The legal substance of this fear is examined by Dirk Kiekebusch who questions whether the principle of conferral still ensures a clear delineation between the responsibilities of member states and the union.

Delgado del Saz, Silvia

Vorsorge als Verfassungsprinzip im europäischen Umweltverbund

Rechtsvergleichende Überlegungen am Beispiel der Risiken der Mobilfunkstrahlung

The precautionary principle has become widespread over the past years and has even gained constitutional status. However, its lack of precise content challenges its constitutional binding force. By analysing the risks associated with electromagnetic fields created by mobile communication base stations, Silvia Delgado del Saz’s investigation defines the content and legal effects of the Precautionary Principle in different European jurisdictions.

Wagner, Julian

Das integrierte Konzept der IE-Richtlinie und seine Umsetzung im deutschen Recht

Zur Neuausrichtung des deutschen Anlagenzulassungsrechts

The current German Environmental Permitting regime is segmented between the various environmental media whereas the European law favours a cross-media and therefore integrated approach. Based on principles of Swiss law, Julian Wagner develops a new concept for a German Permitting regime that retains the German legal regime’s traditional structure but implements the European objective of protecting the environment as a whole.
Reyes y Ráfales, F. Joel

Die Warenausfuhrfreiheit: ein Beschränkungsverbot

Eine Synthese unionsverfassungsrechtlicher, rechtsökonomischer und rechtsprechungsbasierter Auslegung zu einem »Wettbewerbsgleichheits-Rechtswahlmechanismus«

The author reflects critically on the methodology used to interpret EU fundamental freedoms, taking Article 35 TFEU's guarantee to export goods as an example. According to him, the European Court of Justice's narrow reading of this should be abandoned in favour of a dual EU-constitutional law and law and economics approach that would enable exporters to deselect their own national law and choose the legislation of another member state instead.

Wörner, Thorsten

Rechtlich weiche Verhaltenssteuerungsformen Europäischer Agenturen als Bewährungsprobe der Rechtsunion

Wirkungen und Grenzen abstrakt-genereller unverbindlicher Rechtssetzung durch Regulierungsagenturen am Beispiel von Leitlinien und Empfehlungen der Europäischen Finanzaufsichtsagenturen

Instruments often classified as »soft law« or »informal rule-making« – more specifically, guidelines and recommendations issued by European agencies – play a key role in the regulation and supervision of the European financial sector. Regardless of their attractiveness, their legal status remains uncertain and they raise problems with respect to democratic legitimacy and the rule of law.

Hölzer, Jannes M.

Vergaberecht im Verteidigungs- und Sicherheitsbereich der Europäischen Union

The European Union's increasing political responsibility for defence and security demands a strengthening of industrial and technological bases in these two sectors. Against this backdrop, Jannes M. Hölzer investigates whether a functioning single market can be established in the defence and security sector using the current regulatory framework.

Dittrich, Lars

Die Bedeutung des Rechts für die Stabilität des Geldes

Studyen zum europäischen und deutschen Öffentlichen Recht

Last updated: 20/11/2018
One European Central Bank task is to secure price stability. What role does law play here? What can the bank do if its stipulations are not met? Which forms and limits does it oversee? Lars Dittrich develops the first theoretically-founded system of rights for monetary stability from these key questions.

Damm, Carolin

Die Europäische Union im universellen Völkergewohnheitsrecht

According to Article 3 (5) of the Treaty of the European Union, the EU shall contribute to »the strict observance and the development of international law«. As a subject of international law, the EU is bound to customary international law. This volume examines the mutual relations between the legal order of the European Union and the rules of customary international law, exploring how these rules determine the external relations of the EU and how – vice versa – the union takes part in the development and enforcement of customary international law. The result is an evaluation of customary international law rules application within the EU legal order. Subordinate principles regarding the interaction between the two legal orders are summed up and defined in the light of the international legal order's constitutionalizing process.

European Economy and People's Mobility

Project Conference of the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence Jena

Ed. by Matthias Ruffert

This book is the result of a three-day conference about »European Economy and People's Mobility« which was held by the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence Jena in May 2015. Within the internal market which lies at the heart of the European Union's rules, it is the free movement of persons that most drastically affects people's everyday lives in the Member States. In this book, the authors try to answer the questions arising from »People's Mobility« in the European Union from an interdisciplinary perspective. What are the manifestations of mobility? Have they changed in recent years/decades? What is the current grade of mobility? Are individuals more mobile today than in the past? Are there groups that are more mobile than others? What are the (social, economic, political, legal, psychological) preconditions for mobility, and which of these factors advance or impede mobility? Is mobility (socially, economically, politically, psychologically) desirable? What are its positive/negative effects, and how should mobility be increased or reduced?

Survey of contents

Jürgen Basedow: European Economy and People's Mobility. The Fate of the Internal Market

Social, social-psychological and economic aspects of market integration

Richard Münch: Das europäische Integrationsprojekt in der Krise. Zeichen eines tiefgreifenden Systemwandels?

- Heather J. Smith and Thomas Kessler: Relative Deprivation: Implications for Behavior and Health
- Silke Uebelmesser: The Economics of Free Movement and Market Integration

From a mere market integration to an 'espace social'?

Achim Seifert: Free movement of services and national labour law of Member States in conflict. The case of posting of workers

Studien zum europäischen und deutschen Öffentlichen Recht

Last updated: 20/11/2018
Judges are able to orientate their decision on the consequences which are attached to them or on the consequences of independent rules. Whichever system they choose, only the method according to which they make their decision, influences the position of the individual in a legal community. Morten Göke shows that on a European level, court ruling and interpretation praxis deserves to have teleology and deontology recognized as two equally essential directives in judgment making.

Stockhaus, Heidi

Regulierte Selbstregulierung im europäischen Chemikalienrecht

Eine Untersuchung der kontrollierten Eigenverantwortung für den Schutz der Umwelt unter der REACH-Verordnung

The Registration, Evaluation, Authorisation and Restriction of Chemicals Regulation is based on the concept of regulated self-regulation and therefore gives companies in the chemical industry the primary responsibility for the safety of chemicals. By referring to implementation experience gained to date, Heidi Stockhaus assesses whether the state and the European Union still fulfil their special responsibility for the protection of the environment.

Burchardt, Dana

Die Rangfrage im europäischen Normenverbund

Theoretische Grundlagen und dogmatische Grundzüge des Verhältnisses von Unionsrecht und nationalem Recht
Dana Burchardt shows how the complex relationship between the law of the European Union and the law of its member states can be conceptualized with reference to a norm based framework. In so doing, the author addresses the central issue of the hierarchy of these legal bodies.

Hartmann, Moritz

Europäisierung und Verbundvertrauen

Die Verwaltungspraxis des Emissionshandelssystems der Europäischen Union

As part of its bid to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, the European Union set up a scheme for allowance trading, based on the «cap and trade» principle, in 2005. Against this backdrop, Moritz Hartmann's comparative study examines the legal dialectics of the scheme from an EU administrative constitutionalism perspective which has its basis in the normative foundations of Europeanization.

Putzer, Max

Gerichte, Terror und Verfahren

Eine rechtsvergleichende Untersuchung zur Gewährleistung justizieller Grundrechte anhand verfassungsgerichtlicher und höchstrichterlicher Rechtsprechung in Deutschland und Israel

When democratic societies that are threatened by terrorism recalibrate the relationship between liberty and security, there tends to be an erosion of the individual's fundamental rights – not only the defendant's access to justice but also his right to a fair trial. Max Putzer undertakes an examination of the constitutional jurisprudence of Germany and Israel – in the context of their respective security cultures – in order to investigate how the tension between security interests and fundamental rights can be resolved.

Lippert, André

Der grenzüberschreitende Sachverhalt im Unionsrecht

Eine Analyse anhand der Rechtsprechung des Europäischen Gerichtshofs zu den Kontrollkompetenzen

In European Union law, the cross-border facts of a case are generally seen as imperative. When however do these exist? The European Court of Justice at any rate applies quantitative economic criteria. If however the acceptance and the democratic legitimation of European decisions are to be ensured on a permanent basis, legal criteria have to be found which consider the special structure of the European Union as an association of countries and constitutions.
The growing creativity of environmental lawmakers on the European, national and regional level has increasingly resulted in innovative regulatory structures. While the legislature is hoping for a more precise behavioral control, the basic rights of those concerned can be threatened by cumulative impacts.

In many policy areas, the European Union and its Member States perform their duties jointly with the help of instruments for planning. Christoph Rung studies the solutions which have been developed for this purpose in established law. He shows their recurring structures and documents three types of cooperative planning procedures. He answers those basic legal questions which are type-specific and which generally arise in connection with the cooperative planning procedures. In doing so he makes a contribution to the constitutional and democratic order of European administrative law.

The coordination of economic, employment and social policy in the EU is one of the areas where the EU does not act through binding Community law, but uses a non-binding multilateral surveillance procedure. Beate Braams examines this policy instrument under a legal perspective and calls for an explicit inclusion of a category of competence in the Treaty of Lisbon in order to increase the transparency and legitimacy of the coordination instrument.

European solidarity is a concept that is often referred to in the context of the sovereign debt crisis in the European Union. Solidarity has been the key to European integration and is now regarded as a constitutional principle of the European Union. The scope and consequences of this concept however remain unclear – how can it be combined with national identities and how could a European identity evolve? This book, based on the authors' contributions to the corresponding conference in 2012 at the Jean Monnet Chair for European Law at the Free University of Berlin, provides an interdisciplinary discussion of these questions.
Survey of contents

Inhaltsübersicht:
Vorwort

Kohtamäki, Natalia

Die Reform der Bankenaufsicht in der Europäischen Union

As an answer to the financial crisis of 2008/2009, the European Union established the European System of Financial Supervision (ESFS) starting on 1 January 2011. Resulting from this development, the nationally fragmented financial supervision gained a European dimension. Natalia Kohtamäki analyzes the new institutional structure and discusses the legal questions which have arisen due to the reform.

Peuker, Enrico

Bürokratie und Demokratie in Europa

Legitimität im Europäischen Verwaltungsverbund

The democratic legitimacy of governance in the integrated European administration is insufficient. Enrico Peuker explains this deficiency and compensates for it with a theory of bureaucratic legitimacy based upon Max Weber.